

Personal Cooperation in the History of Development Work, 1960-1990
Workshop, Institut für Wirtschafts- und Sozialgeschichte, Universität Wien, Universitätsring 1, 4 – 5 July 2014

Day 1, Friday, 4 July 2014

13.30: Einleitung/Introduction Eric Burton & Berthold Unfried

14.00 – 15.30: Global history of development work

- Berthold Unfried (Universität Wien): What constitutes a global historiography of development?
- Hubertus Büschel (Justus-Liebig-Universität Gießen): Negotiation, Interaction and Translation. Goals and Problems in Writing a Shared History of Development

16.00 – 18.30: Sources and methods

- Eric Burton (Universität Wien): Methods for the historical study of interactions in development work
- Berthold Unfried und Eric Burton (Universität Wien): Experiences from research in Tanzania and Ethiopia
- Hubertus Büschel (Universität Gießen): Lessons from research in „development aid“ in German and African archives

19.00: Viennese “Heurigen”

Day 2, Saturday, 5 July 2014

9.00 – 10.30: Research on development aid in the US-dominated World System

- Jana Otto (Universität Hamburg): Training of African skilled personnel in West Germany in the early 1960s – Reflections on the analysis of practical experiences and interactions/ Fortbildungen afrikanischer Fachkräfte im Westdeutschland der frühen 1960er Jahre – Überlegungen zur Analyse von praktischen Erfahrungen und Interaktionen

11.00 – 13.00: Research concerning „Solidarity/Socialist Aid“ in the Soviet World System

- Elzbieta Drazkiewicz (University of Ireland): Polish Aid in the COMECON period
- Linda Rebmann (Universität Buenos Aires): German Aid to Latin America
- Berthold Unfried (Universität Wien): Interactions between GDR development workers and their African counterparts

13.00 – 14.00: Concluding Discussion